Centenary College of Louisiana

The old and historic Centenary, established in 1845 in Jackson, Louisiana, did grand and enduring work toward forming and developing the best type of manhood in this and the adjoining States. Hundreds went forth from its halls to bless human society, and to adorn the various stations of life.

The new Centenary, located in the beautiful and growing city of Shreveport, will prove worthy of the traditions and achievements of the past. It will be the earnest aim of those who have charge of its interests, so to train the young men who come within its walls, that they may stand in the world, not only for good scholarship, but for the highest moral and Christian character.

While this is a Methodist Institution, and the property of that Church, it is not at all sectarian, in the sense that students coming from other denominations are not equally welcome. There are three Methodist Churches in Shreveport. Students are expected and required to attend divine worship in some church every Sabbath. They are, of course, not restricted to the Methodist Church. All the Shreveport pastors are friends of Centenary, and are frequently invited to visit the college, and conduct the chapel exercises.

Young ladies are admitted to Centenary. Such has been the case for years past. No doubt, quite a number of young ladies, from Shreveport and vicinity, will enter Centenary this coming fall. The College cannot furnish boarding accommodations for them; yet, the spacious and beautiful home of Mrs. Terrett, near the College, is prepared to lodge and board a limited number of young ladies and to provide them with all the comforts of a refined, Christian home. Parents need not hesitate to confide their daughters to her care. Application by letter had best be made soon to Mrs. V. B. Terrett, Gladstone Addition, Shreveport, La. Excellent board and rooms will be furnished at reasonable rates. It is required that those who live in the Terrett home, shall be subject to the same restrictions as are in force at the College Dormitories.

Grammar School Department.

It is determined to organize and maintain a Grammar School within the College walls. This will be composed of boys and girls who have gone as far as the Seventh Grade in the Public Schools. Great care will be taken to give thoroughness and efficiency to this Department. Special teachers will be provided, and the School will be under the personal supervision of one of the College Professors. The pupils will be required to prepare their lessons in the College Chapel, under the supervision of an instructor.

Penmanship.

With the conviction that this is a much neglected art, it is proposed to stress penmanship as one of the important branches of study in the Grammar School

.Preparatory and Fitting School.

There are some students who do not intend to pursue a college course. In the Preparatory Department will be offered such a course as will prepare them for the necessary duties and practical affairs of life. In the Fitting School, the aim is to provide a thorough preparation for college. The course of study is such as to prepare students to enter this or any other leading college of the State. The teaching in the Fitting School will be done by the Professors of the college each in his special line.

Music.

Mrs. Rebekah Ellison Johnston, the accomplished wife of the Dean, will be prepared to give instructions in music to such young ladies who may wish to receive it. She will aso give instrumental or vocal training to young men who may desire to avail themselves of such opportunity. Mrs. Johnston is an experienced and successful teacher of choral singing, and much is expected to be added in the way of interest and attractiveness towards our chapel and other religious exercises, by Mrs. Johnston's well trained classes. Only a small charge will be required to secure the benefits of musical instruction.

Order and Discipline.

There is no "red-tape" order in the College. It will be our effort to maintain wholesome and salutary discipline. The plain, simple rules of the College must be obeyed. Gentlemanly conduct is expected and demanded, and boys and young men are placed mainly on their honor. Where one makes up his mind to recklessly disregard our rules, there will no longer be place for him with us.

Students will not be permitted to leave the College ground day or night, without permission. We believe that the moral influences in Shreveport and vicinity, are as good as in any other city of the country. There are no saloons in Shreveport. It is a prohibition city.

Athletic Association.

All the students are invited to join the Athletic Association. This organization is composed of those who are interested in baseball, football, tennis, track-team, etc. A small fee is charged for membership in order to provide for the necessary expenses. A large part of the College campus has recently been enclosed, and we now have a spacious and attractive Athletic Park.

Literary Societies.

There are two Literary Societies in Centenary, the "Union and Weber" Literary Societies. The old Franklin Institute has lately changed its name to "Weber Literary Society," in honor of the late President of Centenary, Dr. W. L. Weber. The two Societies are fully organized and at work.

They bear names that are identified with Centenary's past; it is their desire to grow and greatly improve in the future.

The Dormitory.

The Dormitory anl Dining Hall will be under the direct management of the Dean. He will reside, together with other members of the faculty, in the College building. The rooms will all be furnished with steam heat and heavy furniture. Each room (to accommodate two boys) will contain single beds, springs, mattresses, chairs, tables, book-shelves, looking-glas , wash-stand, etc. Each student will be required to furnish his bed clothes, pillow and towels.

INTENDING STUDENTS SHOULD ENGAGE ROOMS AT ONCE FOR THE COMING SESSION, OPENING SEPTEMBER 1st

Dining Hall.

In the Dining Hall an abundant supply of nourinshing food will be supplied. Students and Teachers will sit together as members of one family. We believe in this way alone we may escape the unpleasant features of the average College Boarding House.

Reading Room.

A large and well-lighted room has been fitted up as a reading room. A number of the best papers and magazines are subscribed for. All students have access to these periodicals as well as to upwards of two thousand well-selected volumes. Friends can do us a great service by making contributions to our library.

Mail.

Mail is delivered to the College campus by R. F. D. carrier. Mail for our students should be addressed in care of The Centenary College of Louisiana.

The Alumni Association.

The Alumni Association of Centenary College has been organized for several years. At their annual meetings a banquet is served and an address is delivered by a member chosed by the Association. The Officers now in charge are: Judge A. J. Murff, President; Dr. S. C. Barrow, Secretary; Judge S. C. Fullilove, Treasurer. The Alumni have planned to collect the money to erect a dwelling on the campus to be used as the President's home.

Y. M. C. A.

The religious forces of the College have perfected thier organization into a Y. M. C. A. Regular religious exercises are held and a series of protracted services were conducted under their auspices. Bible study classes have been organized and good work done. For next session, the officers already elected are: President, H. Henderson; Vice-President, A. D. George; Secretary, A. W. Warlick; Treasurer, P. M. Browne, Jr.
